

1. System Admin can delegate a pending booking approval to a general user. However, general users do not have the required module access or permission workflow to review and approve the booking, making the delegation ineffective.
2. The system does not display the user to whom a pending booking approval has been delegated. As a result, admin cannot easily track ownership or determine who is responsible for the approval action.
3. The delegation behaviour differs depending on the approval workflow configuration. When a booking is part of a multi-step approval chain, the booking may disappear from the current approver's approval list after delegation, whereas bookings in other workflow configurations remain visible.
4. The Pending Room Approval interface behaves inconsistently when the approval workflow contains multiple approval steps.

5. Changes to color settings made in /admin/studio are not reflected immediately in the user interface. Users must manually refresh the page before the updated colors are applied.

6. Secretary users are able to access report pages and view reports despite not being assigned the report.view permission. This indicates that report access controls may not be enforced correctly.

7. The /admin/studio page does not reflect language changes after the user switches the system language. (e.g. /admin/studio remained in English although user switches language to Chinese)
